NEW MAGAZINES.

THE GALAXY for December completes the twenty-fourth volume and the twelfth year of its existence, and it is safe to say that during the year just closed, contributed its full share to give interest and value to our current literature, and this fact is the best guarantee that it will not fail its readers in the year to come. The December number contains an article by Robert P. Porter on "The strike," a continuation of ex-Secretary Welles' papers on the Lincoln Administration; Youth of Charles Sumner, by Lucy G. White; Suburbs of London, by Henry James; Grotesque, by Emma Lazarus; The Golden Age, by Wm. Preston Johnson; The Florentine Aritmetician by Richard Grant White; a poem by Paul H. Hayne, and other interesting matter.

For the year 1878 we are promised a series of articles on actors, by Lawrence Barrett, the eminent tragedian, who has already won such high favor as contributor; the first article being Edwin Forrest. Mr. Welles' articles on Mr. Lincoln's Administration will be continued. A series of articles on industrial questions, by Charles Wyllys Elliott, may be expected. Richard Grant White's articles on Reading Shakspeare will be continued. Essays on various subjects, by Titus Munson Coan, Junius Henri Browne, Charles Carroll, Albert Rhodes, and others, will be presented. Sketches of Travel and Foreign Life, by Henry James, Jr., E. C. Grenville Murray (the author of The Member from Paris,) and other distinguished writers, serial novels by Henry James, Jr., and Mrs. Annie Edwards, will appear in its pages, together with the fresh and attractive departments of Drift-Wood, the Scientific Miscellany, and Nebulæ. Published by Sheldon & Co., New York.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE RELIGIOUS FEELING. Under this title we have a volume from the pen of Rev. Newman Smyth, formerly pastor of the First Parish church of this city and now of Quincy Ill. It is the result of careful, plain-taking, and laborious thought on the subject of faith, such faith as endures to the end, a rational, simple, more assured faith, that shall be well grounded. The author claims no more for the volume than that it contains "a restatement of the evidence of things not seen, somewhat more in harmony with our present knowledge, and hopes it may draw forth other and better statements" that shall help on the general movement toward a deeper, and yet "simpler, more assured" faith. Among works strictly classed as religious works this is worthy and will doubtless hold a high place. Its pages contain no attempts to display the author's ability to write flowery paragraphs, but with a simplicity and clearness born of a desire to aid, to lead and to point out, to his readers things better than doubts—willing or unwilling doubts—which may be thrust from the hard study of, and concentrated thought on those scientific studies which sometimes engender them. The work is a good one and worthy a wide reading and careful consideration of its presentations. Scribner, Armstrong & Co., publishers, New York. For sale at Bugbee's.

POETIC INTERPRETATION OF NATURE. A volume, from the publishing house of Hurd and Houghton, New York, bearing the title given above, which is the result of a series of lectures delivered by J. C. Sharp, L. L. D., principal of the united college of St. Salvator St. Leonard, St. Andrews, is now given to the public. The work tends to fix the attention the relation which exists between nature and the sensitive and imaginative soul of man and the result which arises from the meeting of these two. Poets and their creations are shown throughout the volume to be those who make us feel a deeper interest in the beauty and wonders about us. The book, as intended by its author, forms a sort of literary supplement to a course of lectures on Chemistry, Geology and Physiology. For sale at Bugbee's.

BOSTON MONDAY LECTURES. We have a volume made up of some of the Author's Joseph Cook's, Monday lectures, delivered in Boston, containing matters worthy of the widest dissemination, presented in a clear, forcible and at the same time interesting manner. In fact so much so, that the reader becomes oblivious to all around, when once he enters upon its perusal. The force of the reasoning takes one along with it so gratifyingly, that the conclusion reached seem his own and it imparts good, wholesome knowledge, that makes one the better in all respects. The book is one that business men, the student, any one will enjoy and be instructed by its perusal. Published by Hoyt, Fogg and Dunham, Portland. For sale at Bugbee's.

AN ESQUIMAUX WEDDING.

Shortly there entered, in perfect silence, a cortege drawing a dog sled, in which was seated the high priest of the tribe, and a more villainous looking object I never beheld. He was stripped to the waist, and smeared with oil and coloring matter in stripes, which gave him the appearance of a Chinese joss. On his head was a tiara of bear's claws, surmounted by an enormous polar bear's head. On his shoulders were placed erect on end two large walrus tusks, fantastically decorated with strips of red flannel, which had been cut from the clothing of a deceased sailor washed ashore. The lower part of his body was covered with other skins, over which were spread a number of young seals, all alive and barking. In the right hand he held a spear, which he waved from side to side in a threatening manner, while with his left he motioned to the bride and groom to approach him. The whole concourse with shouts of gladness capered around the priest's chariot. This he submitted to for a space of ten minutes, and then, imperiously waving his spear, commanded silence.

The groom was now injected to prostrate himself upon the earth on his face, and the bride directed to place her right foot upon his throat, which she evidently did with reluctance. While in this position the priest instructed the groom that such was to be his fate, to be trodden under foot by men, should he ever prove untrue to his plighted troth. He was then permitted to rise, and directed to approach the old chief, who placed a spear at his breast, telling him it would be his death should he prove untrue. He was next directed to his father, who, producing a bludgeon, informed him that he would be killed by each of his offspring. Should he prove unfaithful. Then, to cap the climax, he was directed to face the entire tribe, who brandishing their spears, yelled a chorus of their vows to avenge on him in the event of unfaithfulness. At this juncture the groom, apparently overcome with emotion, dropped on the ground and bowing his head to the earth, cried, "I will be true," until raised to his feet by the bride.—San Francisco Mail.

A MODEST REQUEST.

[From the New York Times.]

The Governor of Texas has been a good deal conciliated, but he wants to be conciliated a little more. There is a trifle of Texas property in Indiana in the shape of a battle-flag, formerly in the possession of a Texan regiment, which flag was captured in battle by certain Indiana soldiers, who, at the time, were fighting, perhaps in accordance with their honest convictions, in behalf of the so-called Federal Government. The Texan Governor has written to the Governor of Indiana requesting him to send the flag by express to its former owners, and nobly offering to pay the expressage. As he justly remarks, "now that the war is over, and ancient friendships are being restored," the return of the flag would be "another evidence that we are indeed friends again", which is a beautiful sentiment beautifully expressed.

Inasmuch as we have adopted the pious and patriotic policy of conciliation, there is no doubt whatever that the flags captured from Confederate troops during the late civil war ought to be returned. We have given back to the Confederate people of Louisiana, of Mississippi, and of other States, the State Governments which ride Republican voters had captured from them at the polls, and it would be folly to refuse to return other and less important things. The Confederate battle-flags were at one time unquestionably the property of Confederate troops, and were taken from them, not by fair purchase, but by actual violence. In fact, they were acquired by a process which had all the essential features of highway robbery, and we cannot wish consistency profess a desire to conciliate people whose property we refuse to restore. Moreover, our continued possession of the Southern battle-flags serves to keep alive the memory of a war in which we triumphed, not because our cause was just or was in any respect better than that of our opponents, but, as President Hayes has beautifully said, "because we happened to have the most Greeks"—Greeks, in this connection, meaning, of course, the hordes of mercenaries who served under the banner of the so-called Union. When our children see a Confederate flag preserved as a trophy in a Northern State-house, they will be impressed with the belief that their fathers were victorious in the late civil war—a fact which, in the interests of conciliation, should be ignored and utterly forgotten as soon as possible. True conciliation requires that we should never mention any subject connected with the civil war—except, perhaps, the first battle of Bull Run and Banks' Red River campaign. If we intend to keep the ill-gotten Confederate flags, we shall be constantly tempted to remember that they are the trophies of victory, and to thus keep alive the memory of that unprincipled struggle in which we unfortunately happened to have the most Greeks.

But there are many other things besides the Southern battle-flags which we ought to immediately restore. It was through agency that the State of Virginia was rent from the mother State, and made a separate Commonwealth. Virginia cannot be thoroughly conciliated unless this property is returned to her. If we refuse to any longer recognize West Virginia as a State, or to give her any countenance or support whatever, she will naturally revert to her former owners. As we have completely abandoned the Republican majority of the voters of Mississippi and other Southern States, we need feel no hesitation in abandoning West Virginia. Of course, it is to be taken for granted that the Confederate citizens of Virginia will treat the citizens of West Virginia justly and kindly, for it is understood that such is the treatment which is universally extended to the black and white Republicans of the South generally, and which has proved so perfectly satisfactory that no Southern Republican thinks it any longer worth while to vote.

Then, there are a number of forts on Southern territory, at Savannah, Wilmington, New Orleans and elsewhere, which were in the actual possession of Confederate soldiers when we, in the most unexcusable manner seized upon them. These forts are still in the possession of the so-called United States, and there is no doubt that were they to be formally given up to the several State Governments to which, in the opinion of Confederate jurists, they rightfully belong, a great deal of conciliation would be effected.

While the President undoubtedly meant well when he adopted his policy of conciliation, he has not carried it out in a thoroughly logical way. When the Republican majorities in Southern States were made to give up their Governments to Confederate minorities, in order to conciliate the latter, there should have been a universal and immediate giving up of everything that the Confederate people wanted. The Government should have been formally, as well as virtually, handed over to the solid South; and although ex-President Jefferson Davis is now advanced in years and feeble in health, he might have been induced to assume, from motives of pure patriotism, charge of the Washington Government. If, however, it had been thought best to wait until 1880 before asking the South to please to accept the Federal Government, the very least that should have been done would have been to return Southern property. It is not creditable to the politeness of the friends of conciliation that the Texan Governor was absolutely obliged to ask for his desired Texan battle-flag. Such an incident ought not to be allowed to occur again. If we really mean to conciliate the South, let us hasten to restore Southern property without waiting to be asked for it. We can at once give back the flags, forts, and other property captured and still held by us, and although we can not restore the houses and crops that the Federal Greeks destroyed, we can at least pay their full value, with interest. If we do this, and in addition assume the Confederate debt and pension the Confederate soldiers, we shall show that we are in earnest in our professed desire for conciliation. To wait until the modest South is compelled to ask us for a general restoration would be as useless as it would be rude. No matter how often even our ablest and most eloquent statesmen may express the beautiful and original sentiment that we should all be fond of one another, "from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Maine to Texas," it will sound like a hollow mockery in Southern ears so long as we hold on to our Southern plunder and churlishly refrain from offering to pay the Southern debts.

NAST is sticking pins into our Republican Senator [Stanley Matthews]. This is unkind—it disturbs the era of pacification.—Cincinnati Gazette.

A HARD-MONEY DEMOCRAT.

It is pleasant to turn from what the N. Y. World styles "the political insanity and knavery of Richard Parks Bland" to the evidence that there are Democrats who stand up for honest money. In the House on Friday last, Abram S. Hewitt, of New York, late Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, followed Gen. Garfield with a warm indorsement of his masterly plea for financial honesty, and although Mr. Hewitt thought it necessary to throw in a word for the St. Louis platform by denying that the resumption act had caused the rapid approach to the specie standard, yet he earnestly advocated the importance of resumption and vigorously combated the propositions for a new era of inflation. He said:

He himself had been told that he was a bondholder and a representative of the money interest of the country. Personally he owned no bonds and his district was inhabited mainly by laboring men. He had a large capital every dollar of which he had made by his own diligence, engaged in business. His firm employed 3,000 persons, and every year since 1873 the establishment had been run at a loss. It was, therefore, to his interest to advocate a financial policy which would be of benefit to the whole country, and that policy was the policy of resumption. He had every motive, out of consideration for the condition of his workmen, to get up in the House and try to discover and have enacted the remedy for the present state of things. Thousands of men of his district, who were suffering beyond anything he could describe, had sent him here on no other issue, and for no other purpose than to attempt to get out of this slough of despond.

The remedy here proposed could only aggravate the evil. Confidence only was lacking, and confidence could at any time be restored to capital by simply assuring it that it would get back as good as it gave. Capital was waiting, was longing, to invest in the West and South—anywhere that there was any degree of certainty for the return of their money with fair interest. But confidence could not be restored by telling the holders of American securities who had expected to be paid in gold that they were to be paid in silver.

In conclusion he said: If we plant ourselves on the rock of honor I see before the country a future as has never been recorded in the history of man. The danger which I see is that, in the hope of temporary relief, we may take an anodyne which may in the end be too much for us, and that we may perish, instead of achieving that health which we all desire. I stand appalled at the prospect which I see before me if these two bills, the Silver bill and the anti-Resumption bill, should become laws. Our sufferings are nothing to what will come after the passage of these acts. Every dollar of moveable capital will quit the country. The debtors who expect that it will raise the price of their property will find that there will be nothing to buy it with, and that values will fall and creditors will take the rest of their funds and go to some clime where their property would be respected. I am clear and certain that but one result can follow from these measures and that that result will be ruin; ruin in resources, ruin in character and ultimately ruin in constitutional freedom.

THE TIMES LOSING PATIENCE

[From the New York Times.]

The Senators who were commissioned to confer with the President made their report to the caucus yesterday. The only new point contained in the summary of their report is the emphatic way in which they are said to have stated the President's unimpaired confidence in the success of his policy in breaking up the Democratic party in the South. The President still believes that the old Whigs will return to what he considers their natural alliance, and that there are other forces at work tending to the disruption of the Southern Democracy. These, he believes, can be very effectively helped by appointing Democrats to Federal offices in the South—a belief which the Republican Senators very naturally fail to share, and whose justice is thus questioned from the side of party expediency as well as from that of political principle. If the President proposes to make an effective use of the civil service for partisan ends, he cannot too soon establish a working agreement with the Republican Senators; if he proposes to employ it simply in the interests of efficiency, fidelity and economy, without regarding what partisan ends may be helped or hindered, he cannot too soon adopt a policy in regard to his selections for offices which will be intelligible to the people at large.

AN INCIDENT AT ATLANTA.

[For the Chicago Inter Ocean.]

We publish to-day a remarkable statement from a Georgia correspondent regarding the late visit of the President there, and the antecedents of one gentleman in particular who played the gallant to the Presidential party. It is said that when the party appeared before the audience at Atlanta, Mrs. Hayes came escorted by one O. H. Jones, well known in that city. It is asserted that Jones was one of the murderous gang who, having captured the gallant Adams and his party of Union scouts near Big Shanties, Ga., in 1864, hung them so brutally at Atlanta. The rope around the neck of Adams being too long, his feet came down to the ground and he stood comparatively unhurt. The chivalric Jones thereupon seized a spade, and digging the earth away from under his feet, choked the heroic Union soldier to death.

The Inter-Ocean wishes to say that this statement comes from a source entitled to credit, and we are assured that it is the literal truth, otherwise we should not publish it. If there is any mistake about the matter we should be glad to make it known. Of course the President and wife were ignorant of the character of the man put forward to honor them, and are not therefore to be specially blamed for the cruel recollections that the appearance of this person revived; but it would be interesting to know who the parties were in Atlanta that suggested this gross discourtesy, and who are to be held responsible for such an outrage against the most common instinct of respect and decency.

The gravity with which some journals parade the defeats of the appointment of a Democratic U. S. Marshal in Georgia, viz: that his Republican predecessor had prosecuted a great many illicit whiskey distillers, and had made the Democrats angry, is amusing. We don't believe that this is the way the President puts it. Certainly we hope not.—Lowell Courier.

Here is what the President is reported as having said to the Senators who called on him:

Peculiar circumstances had governed him in each case. Fitz Simmons, the Georgia Marshal, was particularly alluded to. His reasons were that the internal revenue frauds in that State were large, and where a Republican Marshal had attempted to enforce the laws a party bitterness had been created.

General Sherman, who is supposed to know something about war, differs with the newspaper braves who have showered their abuse upon General Howard. In his annual report General Sherman says:

"I recognize the full measure of the labors, exposure, fatigue, and fighting of General Howard and his command, having personally seen much of the route over which he passed, and knowing the great difficulty of procuring food for men and horses in that mountain region."

In closing the report General Sherman says: "Of course Colonel Miles and his officers and men are entitled to all honor and praise for their prompt, skillful and successful work; while the others by their long toilsome pursuit are entitled to corresponding credit, because they made the success possible."

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

WHY THE NAVY COFFERS ARE EMPTY.

CONGRESS CHARGING TO THE DEPARTMENT WHAT IS DUE TO itself.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. Few members on either side of the House of Representatives seem to understand why a deficiency appropriation is necessary to provide for the pay of the Navy for the closing three months of the last fiscal year, and it has been assumed by many Democrats that the deficiency arose from the diversion by the late Secretary of the Navy of appropriations for the pay of the officers to other purposes. This is not true.

The deficiency is the result of a failure of Congress to provide such money as the law organizing the navy entitles the officers and men to receive. For instance, there is required for the pay of the Navy, as at present organized, about $7,000,000, while the appropriation for the purpose made last year was only $6,000,000, leaving a deficiency of about $1,000,000. This custom of appropriating less money for the pay of the Navy than is actually required is not a new one, but has been followed by Congress for many years. The annual deficiency has been made up in part by "repayments," which have become available during the fiscal year, and upon which the Secretary has drawn. These repayments arise in this manner. Sums of money are deposited with the fiscal agent of the Navy Department in Europe, and are drawn upon by naval paymasters attached to vessels in foreign waters for expenses, chargeable to the several bureaus of the department. The accounts of these expenses have required months, and sometimes years, to reach the department, and two or three years more have, in many instances, elapsed, before they have been settled in the Auditor's Office. Then in the settlement it was generally found, that a balance remained which had not been drawn, and this was available for the current expenses of the Navy. There has been an annual decrease in the amount of these payments as the expenses of the Navy have from year to year been reduced by Congress, so that the sum available for making up deficiencies in appropriations has been less than it formerly was.

Secretary Robeson, it seems, in order that there might be no delay in paying the Navy, treated the appropriation for that purpose as a continuing one, and was accustomed to borrow money from the appropriation of one fiscal year to pay the officers and men who it was due them for the previous year. This practice Secretary Robeson has broken up, and the deficiency of a million and a half which Congress now has to provide for, did not all arise within the last fiscal year, but has been accumulating for a long time.

THE ACTUAL STRENGTH OF THE ARMY. General Sherman, in his annual report, says the following is given as the "return or actual strength" of the army up to the 12th of October, 1877, showing that at that date the regular army was composed of: General officers, 11; general staff officers, 356; hospital stewards, 186; engineer battalion, 195; ordnance, enlisted men, 346; enlisted men of staff corps, 731. Ten regiments of cavalry—Officers, 430; enlisted men, 7,011, total cavalry, 8,355. Five regiments of artillery—Officers, 284; enlisted men, 2,331; total artillery, 2,615. Twenty-five regiments of infantry—Officers, 877; enlisted men, 8,778; total infantry, 9,655. Besides which there are reported as non-commissioned staff unattached to regiments, military academy recruits, unassigned Indian scouts and prison guards, amounting to men, 1,377; Signal Corps, 404; retired officers, 361, and captain United States Army by act of Congress—aggregating officers and men 24,501, of which the force available for war is made up of the cavalry, artillery and infantry regiments, amounting to 20,601 officers and men, to which should be added eleven general officers and the officers of the general staff serving with them, together with 570 Indian scouts.

The N. Y. Times gives the details of a characteristic piece of Democratic trickery, by which, under the advice of Congressman Clarkson N. Potter, and ex-Gov. Hoffman a District Board of Canvassers made out a majority for a defeated Democratic candidate for Senator in the Ninth District. Hon. W. H. Robertson, Republican, had about 230 majority of the votes, but the Democratic Supervisors, canvassing the vote, including such men as Purroy, the Tammany Alderman and jawbreaker, threw out 219 votes because they were headed simply "For Senator," instead of "For Senator (Ninth Senatorial District.)" This piece of rascality secures the return of the Democratic candidate by eleven majority. The trick will not avail, as the Senate will promptly right the wrong, but it shows the incurable determination of the Democrats to resort to the basest methods to secure even temporary advantage.

The N. Y. Tribune says it is stated that Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll has been challenged to a theological discussion in London, Dublin, or Chicago, by the Rev. Tresham D. Gregg, of Dublin. Mr. James Reid, formerly United States Consul to Belfast, says that Dr. Gregg is willing, if defeated in the contest, to retire from his work of propagating the Gospel, and to withdraw from circulation his numerous theological works. On the other hand, if Ingersoll is beaten, he must forever afterward hold his peace against the Christian religion, and must also withdraw from circulation his book and other anti-orthodox documents.

In the last Harper's Weekly Nast pictures the result of the November elections, showing our old friend the Republican elephant, "Saved by the skin of his ——? trunk, we should say; as the old fellow in his plunge has caught hold of a gnarled tree standing out from an overhanging point of ledge marked with the names of the States that went Republican in November. In another cartoon he illustrates "The lightning speed of National Honesty," with Uncle Sam seated on the back of a huge snail labelled "45th Congress," which is thrusting its slimy head and neck slowly out with evident indecision as to moving along at all on the road to resumption.

Noticing no recent reappearance of that inquisitive person in the editorial columns of the Boston Journal, we assume that our advice has been taken and that he is now wrestling for the first time with the text of the Constitution of the United States. Such a factious writer should never have been permitted to dabble in serious matters, as his style of "pleasantry" was somewhat too rash for safety. And then, it came of fail to be mortifying for a political organ at "The Hub of the Universe" to have aggressive manifestations of ignorance in its columns exposed by one of "those journals" published Away Down East.

By the way, the Boston Advertiser has not yet favored a waiting world with the "war record" of that ponderous member of its staff who was recently flinging around his contempt for "belligerent noncombatants." While awaiting the fate of the silver bill, a record of that warrior's deeds of prowess would be highly enlivening.

The sustained effort on the part of the Federal Government to collect the whiskey tax in Georgia and other Southern latitudes is altogether commendable, and it may be that acclimated Democratic officials can alone be trusted to bag this combative sort of revenue.—Tribune.

THE TILTON SENSATION.

The New York Graphic says that the sensational story published in the Sun, Saturday morning, to the effect that Theodore Tilton and Elizabeth, his wife, have become reconciled and will live together again, proves on investigation to be virtually without foundation. It was reported in private circles three or four months ago, and it is still believed by Mr. Tilton's friends, that Mrs. Tilton became tired of the neglect and broken promises of Plymouth church and made a proposition to Mr. Tilton for a reconstruction of their home, offering to renew her former affirmation of intimacy with Mr. Beecher and to profess repentance. This overture was widely and earnestly discussed by Mr. Tilton's friends, and it was at one time thought that a reconciliation might be brought about. Nothing has yet come of it, however. It is generally known that after Mr. Tilton's return from Europe this fall he made a call on Mrs. Tilton, and the purpose of that call was announced at the time, namely: To give her detailed information concerning the health and surroundings of her daughters, who had been placed by him at school in Germany. There is no reason to believe that the call had any other motive or result. It is, of course, entirely possible that Tilton's home may be constructed some time or another.

It is stated that Mr. Tilton retains considerable affection for his wife notwithstanding all that has passed. He has invariably spoken of her with respect and even affection; he has declared her to be white souled and apologized for her alleged unfaithfulness by saying that she was temporarily insane. He is an eccentric man; it is not always safe to assume that he will act in accordance with the conventional notions of prudence. It is the improbable thing that he is in the habit of doing. So it cannot be declared that he may not become reconciled with his wife on the terms suggested in the alleged overture or on some other terms; but it is very certain that at this time those who know him best do not believe the story to be possible, and that his most intimate friends who have recently talked with him in most confidential terms know nothing about it. In other words, those who have a perfect right to know if such an event were contemplated are in utter ignorance. It may, therefore, be assumed that it is a fable. Francis D. Moulton, on being questioned to-day concerning the matter, said, "I know nothing about it; don't want to know anything about it, and can't by any possibility be made to care anything about it. I am through with the Beecher case."

The friends of Mrs. Tilton indignantly deny that she has made any such overtures, and declare that she asserts her innocence with the same tenacity as at the time of the trial.

A NEW YORK ELOPEMENT. A New York despatch says: A most astounding event in high society here is the elopement of a daughter of Mr. Arnold, of the great dry goods firm of Arnold, Constable & Co. She is 19 years of old and a belle, made so by a combination of personal beauty, intelligence and wealth. She fell in love with a clerk in her father's store. He is 50 years old, and poor, his special employment being that of floor-walker. Mr. Arnold sought to break off the intimacy, but the girl was self-willed. Yesterday the couple sailed for Europe, having previously been united in marriage. She has a fortune in her own right, and is therefore independent.

The Portland Press notes an illustration of what is correctly called Boston conceit, which appears in the book reviews of the Atlantic. The critic in speaking of an etching by Unger after a Rembrandt portrait says with enthusiasm that it is "not such Puritan delicacy that one looking at the young man with his delicate, winning smile, full of refinement, cried out that he was like the best sort of Bostonian."

The Evening Wisconsin publishes a list of the members of the Wisconsin Legislature for 1878. According to this list there will be in the Senate 21 Republicans and 12 Democrats, and in the House 48 Republicans, 10 Democrats, 7 Greenbackers, 3 Independents, 1 Socialist, and 1 member still in doubt.

The will of Senator Morton bears the date Sept. 12th, 1877. He bequeaths all his property (valued at $24,000) to Mrs. Morton, requesting that it be administered for the common benefit of herself and their three sons.

President Hayes would find the article which we copy elsewhere from the N. Y. Times, excellently adapted for a select reading at some social reunion of the Cabinet. Schurz and Evarts could not fail to enjoy its humor.

PERISTALTIC LOZENGES.

The effects of

COSTIVENESS

When long continued are pains in the head, dizziness, nausea or sickness at the stomach, soreness, uneasiness in the abdominal region, congestion of the liver, and hence an impeded circulation of the blood, colic, and especially the

PILES.

The grand proximate cause of Dyspepsia is debility of the stomach. The torpidity of the liver is apparent from the small quantity of bile discharged from that organ, and also by a dull pain on the right side. Under which ever form

DYSPEPSIA

Appears there is always lassitude or debility, exertion fatigues, the pulse is weak, the sleep disturbed, the extremities cold, the tongue for the most part furred or covered with a creamy mucous in the morning. No person with a constipated or irregular state of the bowels can have sound health.

It is evident, that some gentle laxative, slightly stimulant to the mucous membrane of the intestines, joined with a tonic, that increases the secretions of the liver and gradually strengthening the stomach, must be a reasonable combination and reach the case. That this combination will do, for proof of which we are happy to be able to refer those heretofore disappointed, to the most reliable physicians, who have long used this remedy in their practice; and also to every apothecary by whom the Peristaltic Lozenges are sold.

These Lozenges will repair the mischief caused by the excessive use of those "Patent Pills," with which the country has for years been flooded.

They are so agreeable to the taste, and convenient in form, that children eat them readily after rejecting the usual nauseous remedies. In those ailments supposed so intimate the presence of Worms, they are a proper remedy.

Price 25 and 50 cents. For sale by druggists, or by mail on receipt of price in P. O. stamps or money.

Details of the Capture

LONDON Nov 19 The Daily News Vera-caleh special says Kars was captured by about 10,000 Russians who climbed the steep rocks, ramparts and walls and sent next in equal number of desperately fighting Turks in hedging flight over their ditches and parapets, compelling them to decide surrender The assault had been originally fixed for the 18th but was postponed, owing to bad weather The principal attack was made on the southern front Gen Lazeroff who commanded the right wing consisting of the fortieth division and half Hafiz Pasha's fort crowning a steep rocky height Gen Count Grabbe with the regiment of Moscow grenadiers and a regiment of the 16th division attacked Hafiz Pasha in the centre the Khanli Tabia Suvarov Tabia the three towers and the citadel Of the Ardahan brigade and another regiment of Moscow grenadiers under Gens Hope and Heimroth forming the left wing, assisted Fort Tchakmakdjis on the north The attack began in the early hours of Saturday evening, when Count Grabbe led his brigade against the Khanli redoubt, and himself fell dead at the first onslaught pierced by a bullet

Captain Kamadinoff of the 30th regiment was the first to enter the redoubt at 11 o'clock at night His sword was found cast out of his hand and his clothes pierced The redoubt surrendered early in the morning and the three towers immediately with the capture of the Khanli redoubt

The capture of Fort Sanvarov and Fort Hafiz Pasha were carried by assault by daylight on Sunday morning General Lazeroff's troops had made progress as far as the capture of Fort Karadh The other forts, especially the Arab Tabia on the east and Takmeh Tabia on the west maintained a stubborn resistance until 8 o'clock when all the garrisons which could escape fled toward Erzeroum but the rear were subsequently overtaken by dragoons and Cossacks and brought back prisoners

THE STATE NORMAL SCHOOL at Castine has now closed for the winter vacation of ten weeks, after a very interesting and profitable fall term and most of the students will teach this winter. The winter term promises except onal advantages because of the smaller attendance Miss Burns, the teacher of Elocution, gives great satisfaction. The cadets have already become quite proficient in the manual of arms, which is a benefit to the health and blessing to the young men in addition to other things in favor of military drill.

REV DR. HAMLIN'S LECTURE upon "Islam and Wine" at the Hammond-st church, Sunday evening, gave great gratification to his audience The speaker's thorough knowledge of the subject is beyond question He has eminently the faculty of presenting facts in a clear and memorable style, and his instances of the extraordinary muscular power and endurance of the Turks, his comparison of the Moslem and Christian populations of the Ottoman Empire upon the point of crimes of violence, and his showing forth of the average Christian carriage and conversation in the eyes of Mohammedans, were more entertaining to his hearers than creditable to the Christian practice of wine-drinking. The audience was of good size, considering the very unpleasant weather and walking.

COUGHS AND COLDS yield readily to Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, which is a most agreeable remedy! It heals the soreness, loosens the phlegm and expels it from the system with scarcely an effort on the part of the patient.

Dyspepsia, loss of vitality and all the accompanying diseases may be positively cured by Schenck's Seaweed Tonic It restores a healthy action of the stomach, creating an appetite, forming chyle and giving tone to all the organs of the body The Seaweed Tonic contains no cheap and injurious spirits of which many of the so-called "Tonics" are made but is scientifically compounded of the purest ingredients

Biliousness and Liver Complaint cannot withstand Schenck's Mandrake Pills. They act upon the stomach and Liver without nauseating or griping and are perfectly safe and harmless.

These three remedies together are a sure cure for Consumption The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter in the lungs and purifies the blood, the Mandrake Pills create a healthy bile remove all diseases of the liver and assist the Pulmonic Syrup by carrying off the putrid matter, the Seaweed Tonic strengthens the Stomach and digestive organs and thereby creates healthy blood The combined action of these medicines, as thus explained, will cure every case of Consumption, if taken in time, and the use of the medicine is persevered in [illegible]

VEGETINE

Purifies the Blood, Renovates and Invigorates the Whole System.

Its Medical properties are

Alterative, Tonic, Solvent, and Diuretic.

Vegetine is made exclusively from the juices of carefully selected barks, roots, and herbs, and so strongly concentrated that it will effectually eradicate from the system every taint of SCROFULA, SCROFULOUS HUMORS, TUMORS, CANCER, CANCEROUS HUMOR, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, SYPHILITIC DISEASES, CANKER, ERUPTIONS, PAIN IN THE STOMACH, and all diseases that arise from impure blood. SCIATICA, INFLAMMATORY and CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, GOUT, and SYMPATHETIC COMPLAINTS, can only be effectually cured through the blood.

For FEMALE COMPLAINTS, LEUCORRHŒA, arising from internal ulceration, and uterine diseases, GENERAL DEBILITY, Vegetine acts directly upon the causes of those complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretive organs, always inflammation, cures ulceration, and regulates the bowels.

For CATARRH, DYSPEPSIA, HABITUAL COSTIVENESS, PALPITATION OF THE HEART, HEADACHE, PAINS, NERVOUSNESS, and GENERAL PROSTRATION OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM, no medicine has ever given such perfect satisfaction as the Vegetine. It purifies the blood, cleanses all of the organs, and possesses a controlling power over the nervous system.

The remarkable cures effected by Vegetine have induced many physicians and apothecaries whom we know to prescribe and use it in their own families.

In fact, VEGETINE is the best remedy yet discovered for the above diseases, and is the only reliable BLOOD PURIFIER yet placed before the public.

THE BEST EVIDENCE.

The following letter from Rev. E. S. Best, pastor of M. E. Church, Natick, Mass., will be read with interest by many physicians, who are suffering from the same disease as mentioned in the letter of Rev. E. S. Best. No person can doubt this testimony, for there is no doubt about the curative powers of Vegetine!

NATICK, Mass., Jan. 1, 1874.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir,—We have good reason for recommending your VEGETINE as medicine of the greatest value. We feel assured that it has been the means of saving our wife's life. She is now purchasing her third dozen for the last two years she has suffered from a disease of the liver, caused by scrofulous affection, and was so far reduced that doctors at home and elsewhere thought her recovery impossible. A council of able physicians could give her but the faintest hope of her eventual recovery, three of the number declaring that she was beyond the reach of human remedies, that even amputation could not save her life, as her system was too reduced to endure the operation. Just then we commenced giving her VEGETINE, and from testimony to the present she has been continuously improving. Her health rapidly returned, she studies, throws away her crutches and cane, and walks about cheerfully and strong.

Though there is still some discharge from the opening where the limb was lanced, we have no doubt of her ultimate recovery, and that a little time he will be perfectly cured.

He has taken about three dozen bottles of VEGETINE, but lately uses but little, as he declares that he is too well to be taking medicine.

Respectfully yours,

E. S. BEST,

MRS. L. C. F. BEST.
